NINE KILLED IN CALIFORNIA PLANE CRASH

Mariner 2 Gives Man First Close Look at Planet Venus

Scientists Rejoice At Historic Feat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mariner 2, a miracle of U.S. space science, has given man his first close look at another planet.

For 42 minutes Friday it scanned Venus, flashing back 36 million miles the information that may unravel the secrets of the "veiled lady of the universe."

It was an incredible feat and excited scientists rejoiced.

The historic flyby came at 3 p.m. after a 109-day, 182 million-mile journey which began at a Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching pad.

At its nearest approach to Venus, the space laboratory was 21,000 miles from the planet relatively at its doorstep.

Special monitoring devices began to probe the cloud-covered surface at 1:55 p.m. and were switched off at 2:37 p.m.

Then the craft was speeding toward the sun, after having come closer to a planet than any other space vehicle.

Mariner is expected to send periodic information about interplanetary space from as far out as 72 million miles from the earth. That's twice the distance it was from earth Friday after a long journey plagued by frequent troubles and even cliff-hanging doubts on the final dash.

The spacecraft's final destination will be an orbit around the sun, each lap taking 400 days, never coming closer than 40 million miles from the earth.

It will take days and possibly weeks for scientists to analyze and evaluate just what was found out by the electronic eyes of the 447-pound, gold and silver plated space messenger that rocketed from the earth Aug. 27.

But they hope, and expect, to get at least some clues to help resolve such vital questions as these:

1. Is Venus a vast, arid desert swept by dust storms, or a sea of water or oil, or a jungle teeming with some forms of life?

2. Is it surrounded by dangerous radiation belts, such as the earth has, thus demanding special precautions in any attempts to land men there?

3. How strong is her magnetic field, and how is her cloud-shrouded environment affected, if at all, by gaseous solar winds that carry particles from the sun at speeds up to 450 miles a second?

4. Are there breaks in the dense clouds that surround her? The spacecraft, it is tentatively

Power Shortage Hampers Relay

Scientists Working With New Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists try new test efforts today in hopes the latest U.S. communications satellite—weak-voiced but in near-perfect orbit—will soak up enough energy from the sun to run its radio relay equipment.

The relay satellite was lofted into orbit Thursday night by a Thor-Delta rocket fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

But low battery power in the 172-pound satellite cast doubt on whether it would be successful in speeding the day when pace vehicle will provide an instant worldwide communications system.

The satellite was sent aloft to relay radio, telegraph, voice and television signals and extend the space communications knowledge gathered through operations of the now-stilled Telstar satellite.

Tests planned Friday were called off because of the power problem.

"Telemetry indicated that the battery voltage was too low to turn on one of the two transponders and conduct communications tests," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Transponders are automatic radio relay devices.

The space agency said Relay did have enough battery power to send back telemetry data on radiation, another part of its mission in space.

During its fifth orbit Friday, Relay exchanged signals with a space agency test station at Nutley, N.J.

The satellite whirled around the earth every 3 hours, 5.09 minutes, NASA said. Relay was reported traveling at about 17,000 miles an hour, with an orbital high point of 4,612.18 miles and a low point of 4,612.18 miles from earth.

Planned orbital time was 3 hours, 4 minutes, and the projected high and low points in Relay's orbits were 4,500.

Relay gets its power from 8,215 solar cells that line its outer surface. The cells turn sunlight into electrical energy to charge the satellite's storage batteries.

If Relay's power problems are solved, the satellite is to link the United States and Europe for a 30-minute Christmas television program next Wednesday. The holiday show would include broadcasts from the United States and eight European nations.

Telstar's four-month career ended in November. That satellite went through a series of highly successful communications tests among them the relay of the first live television programs sent between the United States and Europe.

JFK Defends Proposed Tax Slash In '63

Claims Lower Rates, Reduced Spending Will Help Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy replied to congressional critics of his 1963 tax cut plan by arguing that lower taxes, tied to curbs on rising federal spending, offer the best chance of producing future budget surpluses.

Going before a black-tie audience of business leaders, Kennedy called Friday night for an early cut in both individual and corporation income taxes — without saying just how soon he would want the reductions to become effective. Omission of his earlier Jan. 1 target date seemed well-calculated.

The chief executive also urged a cut large enough "to do the job required" — to boost purchasing, production, employment, investment and economic growth in general. Again, he was not specific, saying he would rather wait until next month to give details.

Addressing some 3,000 members and guests of the Economic Club of New York, Kennedy declared: "This nation can afford to reduce taxes—we can afford a temporary deficit—but we cannot afford to do nothing."

In this fashion, he took direct issue with those congressional conservatives of both parties who contend that tax reduction next year would lead to a dangerously large federal deficit.

Presenting the contrary view, Kennedy said, "Budget deficits are not caused by wild-eyed spenders but by slow economic growth and periodic recessions."

Union Delays Strike at Schnell Co.

Thirty-five members of the two-month old United Auto Workers labor union at Schnell Tool & Die Co. and the Salem Stamping and Manufacturing Co. decided Friday to postpone — perhaps abandon — plans for a strike in their move to seek higher wages and more benefits.

Union president Ormond Long of S. Howard Ave. said this morning he hopes his group and management at Schnell can reach an agreement without resorting to strike measures.

He reported the results of a Friday morning consultation between union representatives and Atty. Harry Manchester of Youngstown, counsel for Schnell. A new counter-proposal by the company, the terms of which were not disclosed, was not agreed upon, Long said.

The union head said the main bone of contention is the "too low wages" paid by Schnell Tool & Die Co. The bulk of the workers belonging to his union, he said, receive hourly wages ranging from $1.15 to $1.35, while a few are paid from $1.45 to $1.60, the latter figure being maximum. Long declared. He said many of the men with large families cannot support their families on this pay.

The company and the union have also been at odds over what Long said was a reduction in overtime and benefits over the last

Application Deadline Jan. 5

School Board May Ask To Use Old Post Office

The Salem Board of Education is expected to decide Monday night whether to make application to the federal government for use of the old Salem post office building for administrative and possibly classroom purposes.

The building, vacated in May after the new post office was completed, was declared surplus by the General Services Administration last month. Application for its use must be made by Jan. 5, if the board agrees the acquisition is desirable.

The board has shown interest in the building for several months but as yet has taken no formal steps toward its acquisition. The sum of money needed to renovate the building has been an inhibiting factor in the group's decision.

It is estimated that to convert the building for chiefly administrative and storage purposes would entail an outlay of "under $100,000," but if the structure were to include classrooms, the renovation would mount to $50,000 to $60,000.

The General Services Administration has announced that the building may be utilized for educational organizations, health groups, or library purposes, but thus far no other organization in Salem has indicated an interest in the half-century old structure at E. State St. and N. Lincoln.

Application for use of the building would have to be made first to the Ohio State Agency for Property Utilization, headed by Walter G. Rhoten, a part of the State Department of Education. This agency would then forward the application to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for review and possible approval and release by GSA.

Other matters scheduled for discussion include the possibility of purchasing 70 extra desks for the Baptist Church where a McKinley school class is held and for Prospect School. By purchasing the desks before Dec. 31, the board could get a 16 per cent discount on the price.

The board may act to fill the Public Library board vacancy created when Ray Dean, Salem News managing editor, resigned this fall.

A delegation from Reilly School Parent-Teachers Association will attend the meeting to recommend the installation of a cafeteria so some 240 youngsters who have to bring lunches can have hot noon meals.

Balloonists Discover Stars Twinkle Less

HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE, N.M. (AP) — New information about air turbulence and the stars has been brought back by two men who rode a balloon to the edge of the earth's atmosphere.

Air Force Capt. Joe W. Kittinger Jr. and William C. White, civilian Navy astronomer, made the flight in an Air Force Star-gazer balloon Thursday and Friday, climbing nearly 15½ miles. They landed back in New Mexico Friday morning and reported, among other things, that stars lose their twinkle at about 30,000 feet.

Warm Trend Forecast for Northern Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — Northern Ohio is due for a slight warming trend after a week of snow and bone-chilling cold, but at least one man is hoping things don't get too warm.

He is Grant Vaughan, flood forecaster in the Akron Weather Bureau.

Vaughan expressed concern today about the possibility of flooding in areas heavily banked with drifts, some six feet high.

He made it clear, however, that there is no danger of heavy flooding as long as it doesn't warm up too fast. He said he would make a series of tests in the snow-belt early next week to determine how much water is in the snow.

The rising temperatures forecast for today—possibly as high as 30—are expected to aid weary snow-fighters, many working around the clock since the snow began Dec. 5.

Cleveland weatherman Lesley Hobson said a light snow this afternoon would amount to no more than an inch.

"I think the real cold is over for a while and it looks like a gradual

Airliner Misses Runway Due to Fog

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A ninth victim was found today at the scorched, wreckage-littered scene where an airliner missed a runway and plunged into a block of suburban homes.

The Civil Aeronautics Board launched a probe of the flaming crash. Witnesses said the plane dropped out of the foggy sky Friday night—as if it were coming in for a landing—and smashed instead into residences hundreds of yards short of a nearby airfield.

Killed were five men and four women, two of them teen-age girls.

Four of the men were aboard the Flying Tiger Lines Constellation.

The other victims were found dead in the shattered wreckage of homes.

Firemen were still probing the smoking ruins early today, fearing there were more bodies. All the victims were burned and many were mutilated.

Six homes and two commercial buildings were set afire as blazing gasoline spewed from the wreckage.

The plane fell in a section of the San Fernando Valley a quarter-mile from its destination, Lockheed Air Terminal, in Burbank. Among its cargo were Christmas toys from Boston. The plane, a prop-driven cargo craft, carried only one passenger — a man who hitched a ride.

The Civil Aeronautics Board launched an immediate inquiry into the crash.

Motorists and pedestrians stared in disbelief as the four-engine craft swept across busy Laurel Canyon Boulevard so low they could see the blue flame of its exhausts—as if it were making a routine landing.

"The plane was lowering in just like for a landing," said Mike Powers. "It had its landing gear and the flaps down. The landing lights were burning. I just couldn't believe it could come down there. Then the left wing dipped and the plane smashed in, nose first."

The plane clipped power lines, which whiplashed across homes and yards, trailing sparks—and plunged the neighborhood into darkness lit only by blazing homes and wreckage.

"Screams rose from the block as the rumble of the crash subsided," said a resident. "The children were terrified. Everything

NATO Approves Forces Buildup

Leaders Still Split On Nuclear Policy

PARIS (AP)—Ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization agreed today to build up NATO's conventional military strength on a more equitable basis. They also announced their readiness to ease cold war tensions, whenever Moscow makes reasonable proposals.

In a communique issued at conclusion of their annual winter meeting, the foreign, defense and finance ministers of the alliance credited the firmness and strength of President Kennedy's administration with averting war over Cuba.

They also condemned the grave implications of Chinese Communist actions in Asia—a statement which clearly extended moral support to Prime Minister Nehru's India.

The 15-nation alliance expressed hope that the Soviet Union would so change its attitudes as to allow conclusion of a treaty on general and complete disarmament under effective international control.

NATO remains ready "to examine any reasonable possibility of reducing international tension," the communique said, but to accomplish this goal the members

Thirty-seven students registered Friday night for winter quarter classes at Kent State University's Salem Academic Center.

This group, plus those that enrolled during advance registration makes the current total 75 for the new session to begin Jan. 3.

Others interested in the nine courses to be offered may register through Jan. 2, the Center reports.

Classes will be given in economics, English, health principles and practices, history, physical science, psychology, political science, sociology and speech.

Francis E. Hazard of Canton, director of the Salem Center, headed the registration last night and was available for advising students in program planning for the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education or Fine and Professional Arts.

Beginning freshman courses are offered in the nine areas listed, as well as continuation courses for former students, Hazard explained.

In the fall quarter, 119 new freshman students enrolled at the Center while 35 entered with previous college training.

Others interested may call or visit the Center at the Senior High School. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Lucille Callahan, secretary, said students should register as soon as possible because several classes are nearly full.

Salvation Army to Honor Memory of Late Nathan Hunt

Col. and Mrs. Paul S. Kaiser, Cleveland divisional officers of the Salvation Army, will conduct a special memorial service Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at the local Citadel in honor of the memory of Nathan Hunt, former Salem industrialist who was a life member of the SA Advisory Board.

Some 10 years ago Mr. Hunt donated to the Army the building on South Broadway which is its headquarters.

He died in the summer of 1961 and one of his prior requests was that any memorial tributes be sent to the Salvation Army. These funds made it possible to purchase a plaque which will be dedicated tomorrow. It reads: "Dedicated to the Glory of God and in Memory of Nathan Hunt."

Advisory Board members will be guests at this service and other interested persons are invited, announced Capt. Jeanne Manhollan, officer in charge of the local corps.

Mr. Hunt founded the N. C. Hunt & Son Co., now known as the Bellows ValVair Division of IBEC.

With Flameless Electric Heat "We have no drafts and the heat is so steady and even you forget you have a heating system at all."

... says Mrs. John Shroats, R.D. No. 1, Owens Road, Prospect, Ohio

"Like all women," Mrs. Shroats adds, "I like to rearrange my furniture from time to time, and with electric heat in the ceiling this is easy. I'm especially grateful for electric heat because it is so clean ... and it is such a healthful heat."

Because electric heat is flameless and clean as electric light, drapes, walls, and furnishings stay cleaner far longer ... you save on cleaning and redecorating work and expense.

There are no cold spots, hot blasts, or cold drafts with flameless electric home heating ... just even, gentle warmth from corner to corner and ceiling to floor. And with a thermostat in every room, you dial any degree of temperature you want anywhere.

The Shroats' home has 6 rooms with 1280 square feet of living area. It's heated with ceiling cable, plus two ceiling heaters in the basement.

The electric way is the only new way to heat your home since time began, because it's flameless.

Before you build, buy or remodel, investigate the extra advantages of flameless electric home heating. For complete information, call your nearby Ohio Edison office.

Pat Fontaine: Happy Early Morning Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Fontaine, the good-looking, good-humored young woman with whom millions of sleepy-eyed Americans drink their morning orange juice and coffee, undoubtedly is the happiest woman in the world who has to get to work by 5:30 a.m.

Since mid-August Pat has been the distaff regular on NBC's "Today Show." That is the news-and-amuse program which, from 7 to 9 weekday mornings over much of the nation, gets the breadwinners out of the house on time and prepares the stay-at-homes for their chores.

Pat, a native of Salt Lake City, theoretically won her place on the "Today" panel with Hugh Downs, Jack Lescault and Frank Blair, after a two-week try-out in July. In fact, it was the second knocking of opportunity. NBC officials, who had seen her work in Little Rock, Ark., and St. Louis, Mo., were interested in having her join the show several years ago when Betsy Palmer quit to resume her acting career.

she said, "because I had really just started there, with two weather shows."

She remained three years to talk of highs, lows, pressure systems and advising whether or not to carry umbrellas. Then the second bid came—and she accepted.

A bubbling, energetic soul, Pat thrives on a schedule which would kill a lesser female. A divorcee, she lives with her five children (three girls and two boys, between the ages of 17 and 10) in a big, old seven-bedroom house in a New York City suburb.

She adores her work, loves her colleagues, is thrilled to meet the great, the interesting and the off-beat characters who turn up on the show. Her idea of a perfect, restful weekend is to climb into a station wagon with all her children and take off for two days of skiing.

Recommended Weekend Viewing:

Saturday—"As Caesar Sees It," ABC, 8:30 p.m. (EST)—third in a series of comedy specials.

Sunday—"Thread of Life," NBC, 5-6 p.m.—repeat of a science special on heredity; "Hurricane Hannah," NBC, 7:30-8:30—documentary report on a hurricane; "The Ordeal of Dr. Shannon," NBC, 10-11—Rod Taylor in an adaptation of Cronin's "Shannon's Way" made in England and Scotland.

World Is In a Period of Great Double-Dealing

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Language gets tormented, lying gets ignored, spies get swapped, and enemies want to keep in touch.

This is part of the dealing, and double-dealing, in the world of the 1960s.

The U.S. government lied in 1960 when it first tried to deny the American pilot shot down in a U2 plane over Russia was a spy.

When Premier Khrushchev a few weeks later broke up a summit conference with President Eisenhower it wasn't because of the lie but the spy.

Khrushchev got over his hurt feelings. This year the Russians glibly and blandly lied that the weapons they sent to Cuba were for defense only.

When President Kennedy announced the Cuban crisis Oct. 22 he said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, sitting with him in the White House five days before, was still cheerfully lying about the missiles Fidel Castro had.

But when Kennedy and Khrushchev then tried to solve the crisis their letters, although a little stiff and starchy, weren't unpleasant at all and at one point Khrushchev said what amounted to this: "Just between us fellows, sure they were missiles."

This week, when Khrushchev explained his Cuban mess to the Soviet Parliament, he couldn't avoid a little brag. He admitted the missiles were not only missiles but were ready for firing, which is more than Kennedy seemed to know.

Yet, the Kennedy-Khrushchev relationship has remained very pleasant — even this week when the Soviets arrested one of their own people as an American-British spy, just one day before Khrushchev told Parliament how much he wants to get along with the United States.

Earlier this year Khrushchev swapped Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 pilot who got 10 years in a Soviet prison but served less than two, for the Russian spy, Col. Rudolf Abel, who got 30 years in this country but served only five.

Meanwhile, it seems with great regularity, Americans are being thrown out of Russia for getting too nosy and Russians get the bounce in this country for the same reason.

But it's those old friends and helpmates, Russia and Red China who are providing the greatest dialogue in double-talk in modern times.

They are busy denouncing each other with such savagery and scorn world communism may split in half.

Yet, neither has said one unpleasant word directly to each other. They talk at each other.

The Chinese for a long time have been denouncing the Russians for being too soft on the West with their "peaceful coexistence" slogan. They got worse when Khrushchev meekly backed his missiles out of Cuba.

The Chinese in all this have never mentioned Khrushchev or the Russians by name. The Russians have returned the favor.

This week Khrushchev depicted them as a bunch of loud-mouthed "hooligans" and betrayers of Karl Marx. He didn't say the Chinese were. He said the Albanians were, meaning the Chinese were.

Communist Albania, about as big as a pimple on the face of Europe, is allied to China, which is half a world away and couldn't help her in trouble, and is against Russia which some day soon may do her in.

This week those diplomats used to dashing over oceans with a big message in their briefcase must have felt as forsaken as if someone had swiped their homburgs. At his news conference Kennedy, answering a question about having a direct line between him and Khrushchev, said he thought it would be a good idea in this speedy nuclear age to have instant communication.

If Khrushchev accepts the idea, and he probably will, in time the two men may have a private television hook-up so they can make speeches to each other or even have a summit conference on a minute's notice.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It Will Not Be Safe For Communism

If the Soviet Union's front men want to ring true when they talk about reaching an understanding with the United States, they must get rid of the creed of world revolution.

They must quit trying to make the world safe for communism by forcing it down the throats of noncommunist countries.

This may be why Premier Khrushchev and Marshal Tito have been putting their arms around each other's shoulder the last few days. Tito and Stalin split on the issue of world domination by Russian communists. Tito never bought the idea that even nearby Yugoslavia should be dominated by party comrades in Russia.

THIS IS the issue between Red China and Red Russia, between Albania and the Russian communists. It was the issue that broke the back of the communist movement in the United States; American party members were made to look absurd by the shifting of the party line in Moscow. When the smarter ones also began to feel absurd, the zing was gone from their preachments.

Actually, it isn't hard to abandon the thought of a world made to conform to one pattern. The United States did it once.

It was going to make the world safe for democracy. To borrow a phrase made famous by Premier Khrushchev, it "was going to bury" the divine right of kings. This did not sit well with some countries, including Britain, a World War I ally. And gradually the United States began to quit talking about making the world safe for democracy. Its aim now is to make the world safe for anything. Americans believe in co-existence. Not all of them are ready to admit it, but Americans even would settle for co-existence with communism if communists would quit shouting about burying capitalism.

AMERICANS aren't afraid of communism as an idea, only as a doctrine of violent revolution.

As an idea, they are sure Communism will fall of its own weight.

They are sure that Russian economic survival depends on adoption of capitalist principles and that knowledgeable Russians know this and continue to preach Marxism only to attract gullible people looking for the means of revolt.

The world will not be safe for communism. It will not be safe for democracy.

But neither will it be safe for despotism and brutality.

That may become the new goal—the new great purpose.

...But Don't Threaten Us

A report that the British-American alliance is strained because of the failure of the Skybolt missile is beyond comprehension.

This missile apparently has turned out to be one of the costly failures of a program of trying so many things, simultaneously that some of them were bound to succeed. In five tests there were five failures, whereupon, the Department of Defense said it would scrap the Skybolt project.

This was a blow to U.S. taxpayers, who had spent some $650 million on it. But it was a harder blow to the British government, which had pinned the continuation of its manned bomber program to Skybolt missiles, after discontinuing its own unsuccessful Blue Streak missile.

Skybolt missiles were to have been carried in British bombers to high altitudes and fired as air to ground projectiles with a range of 1,000 miles. There is nothing in sight to take their place, and the British government is reported to be furious.

It is so furious it is grumbling about getting even, perhaps kicking the United States out of the Holy Loch Polaris base, or doing some other drastic thing to show the undependable Americans they can't fool around with the lion and come off with a whole skin.

Does this kind of outburst justify appeasement? What would happen if the United States just once would respond stiffly to a studied insult that it has no desire to stay where it isn't wanted and would start to pull out of the United Kingdom as soon as it could crate up all its belongings, including those lovely objects every Briton admires—dollar bills?

Object: Student Aid

Last fall we commented editorially to the effect that "the Damascus Ruritan club has acted, in deed and word, to help organize the West Branch Scholarship Association, a community organization that will help deserving junior and senior college students finish their educational careers with financial aid, if needed."

We went on to compliment the Damascus club for its action in pledging $100 for the next two years to help establish the scholarship fund, all of which is true, but we failed to mention at that time that four other active Ruritan clubs in the large West Branch School District — Beloit, Goshen Center, North Georgetown and Maple Ridge — are playing an equal part in the worthy endeavor.

There was no intention to slight these other fine rural service organizations but since the original editorial was reprinted by Ruritan National magazine, we apologize.

We feel personally that we have played some small role in the growth of Ruritan in this area and this newspaper's aim is always to be objective and helpful to every individual and each organization and never on any selfish, partisan basis.

The West Branch Scholarship Association is too important to the boys and girls of the district to be jeopardized by "hurt" feelings. Let's act like adults. The students might be watching.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: As to what you are going to get me for Christmas, let's play no cute games this year. Do not try to be clever.

I do not want a little brush for getting rid of fuzz in my fuse box, or even a chain to tell me which bottle I am holding by the throat. I have enough mufflers to make drapes for a public library and I do not wear mufflers anyway.

My bureau holds boxes of neckties I've never opened and, as you know, I buy my gloves at the filling station and they have writing on them. I do not need gadgets to tend bar with nor any haberdashery.

I am the man who has nothing. But there are several things I want desperately and never get around to purchasing for myself.

If you want to be a good kid this Christmas and make your old uncle as happy as a clam in food time, buy me 10 pounds of assorted nails at a hardware store. If you want to pile it up high and make this a Christmas never to be forgotten, throw in five pounds of assorted screws, three pounds of assorted washers and a set of faucet washers.

That is my idea of Christmas—even for men and women who have everything. Pick out something they have that is going to be used up and give them a replacement.

For example, can you think of anything you'd appreciate more than a couple of new tires for your car—just to pick out something at random?

Or can you think of anything I'd appreciate more than a couple of first-class replacements for dead soldiers that have died in the line of duty fighting snakes, common colds and ennui here at Cotton Corners?

Nor that I want to knock Ye Gifte Shoppe merchandise, which is fine for those who like it—not that at all. I just want to get things squared away in time for the Yuletide showdown.

Like your aunt, for example. This practical woman wants nothing more than kindness. She wouldn't know what to do with an ermine wrap if she had one. But she has this thing going about kindness, which represents security and luxury to her.

It's one of a few things we never could agree on. I am not a kindling addict.

I had no searing experiences in my childhood because kindling represents nothing to me. I do not crave it.

She does. So I am going to give her kindness for Christmas and if she will heed me I will get bags of concrete mix in return. Me, I want to have plenty of concrete mix handy at all times. If I were a pipe smoker, I expect I'd feel the same way about tobacco and matches. I'd live in fear of running out.

Do we understand each other? Do not try to be clever about buying me a Christmas present. Don't try to be clever about your aunt either. She wouldn't say boo, but anything except kindness would be a waste of money and solicitude.

And for me—nails and assorted hardware supplies.

When your family gets back together, convey our regards to one and all. Next thing we know it will be Happy New Year.

COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

Nikita's Speech Reveals Soviet Aggression Plans

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Premier Khrushchev has made a speech to the Supreme Soviet—or Russian parliament—which attempts to explain publicly for the first time why the Soviet Union sent missiles and planes into Cuba. It is, however, the most flagrant example of deliberate deception by the head of a government that has been given to the

David Lawrence
comment that has been given to the world since the days of Adolf Hitler.

The influence of Nikita Khrushchev will inevitably suffer for, while he insists that he sent missiles and planes to Cuba to counter the alleged threat of aggression by the United States, the chronology of events actually shows that the missiles were placed and the planes were shipped to Cuba long before there was any crisis in the relations between Cuba and the United States. Due to censorship, this discrepancy in dates will not be revealed to the Soviet people.

The premier endeavored to assure his associates that the major reason why he sent militant help to Cuba was to assist the Cuban people, "our brothers in toil, our class brothers."

It is unrealistic for anyone outside the Soviet Union to believe that merely an ideological comradeship caused the Soviet Union to spend in the neighborhood of a billion dollars just for the sake of anticipating some theoretical action by the United States in respect to a country as far away from the Soviet Union as Cuba.

THOUGH ARGUING for the right of a nation to deal with its own internal affairs, Mr. Khrushchev contradicted himself in his speech when he said the Soviet Union felt it desirable not only to take control of certain important programs inside Cuba but also to maintain a Soviet military organization there under direct command of the Soviet defense ministry instead of under the Cuban government.

He said: "It is true that, at the request of the Cuban government, we sent arms there. But what motives guided us in doing this? Purely humane ones. Cuba needed arms as a means of deterring aggressors, not as a means of attack. Cuba was, indeed, under a real threat of invasion."

The Soviet premier added: "A very alarming situation had arisen. Everything showed that the United States was preparing to carry out an attack on the Cuban republic using its own armed forces."

But in the very next paragraph, the Soviet premier insisted that none of his weapons sent to Cuba could be used for offense. In recent weeks, however, he has removed some of these same weapons because the United States characterized them as offensive. Everybody knows that the missiles were capable of nuclear attack on cities in the United States and that the planes were able to carry atom bombs and drop them on cities in certain sections of this country.

Mr. Khrushchev again brushed aside the idea that there was any serious military purpose involved. He said: "The government of Cuba last summer asked the Soviet government to provide additional assistance. An agreement was reached about a number of new measures, including the stationing in Cuba of a few dozens of Soviet ballistic rockets with a medium range of action. These weapons were to be in the hands of Soviet military."

"What was the aim of that decision? Of course, neither we nor our Cuban friends meant that the small number of medium-range rockets dispatched to Cuba would be used for an attack against the United States or any other country. Our only aim was the defense of Cuba."

IT IS DIFFICULT to understand just why the defense of Cuba suddenly became so important to the Soviet Union that it was willing to spend a billion dollars and send weapons which were capable of actually carrying on an attack against the United States, with which country the Soviet Union had professed to be on friendly terms.

The Soviet premier weakly explained the dilemma in this way: "Rockets were placed there so that the American imperialists, if they really decided on invasion, should feel that the war which they were threatening stood on their own frontier, and so that they should have a more realistic idea of the danger of thermonuclear war."

"Certain people depict the matter thus: That the rockets were placed by us for an attack on the United States. This, of course, is not sensible reasoning. Why should it be necessary for us to place rockets in Cuba for this purpose, when we had and have the capability to strike the blow from our own territory, having available the necessary quantity of intercontinental rockets of the necessary range and power?"

What Mr. Khrushchev, despite all his conflicting statements, didn't explain is why, if he wished to aid Cuba, it was necessary to send any missiles there at all. If, as an ally of the Cuban government, he wished to protect Cuba, he could have threatened to send his missiles from Soviet territory.

HE NOW CLAIMS that the United States "gave before the whole world a public undertaking not to attack the Cuban republic and to restrain their allies from doing so." Nowhere does he reveal that verification of the removal of the missiles and planes is still being denied to the United States and that a "no invasion" pledge by the United States is related directly to the establishment of a system of international inspection on the ground in Cuba.

"Whose side has triumphed?" asks Mr. Khrushchev. "Who has won? It can be said here that it is reason that has won—the cause of peace and people's security has won."

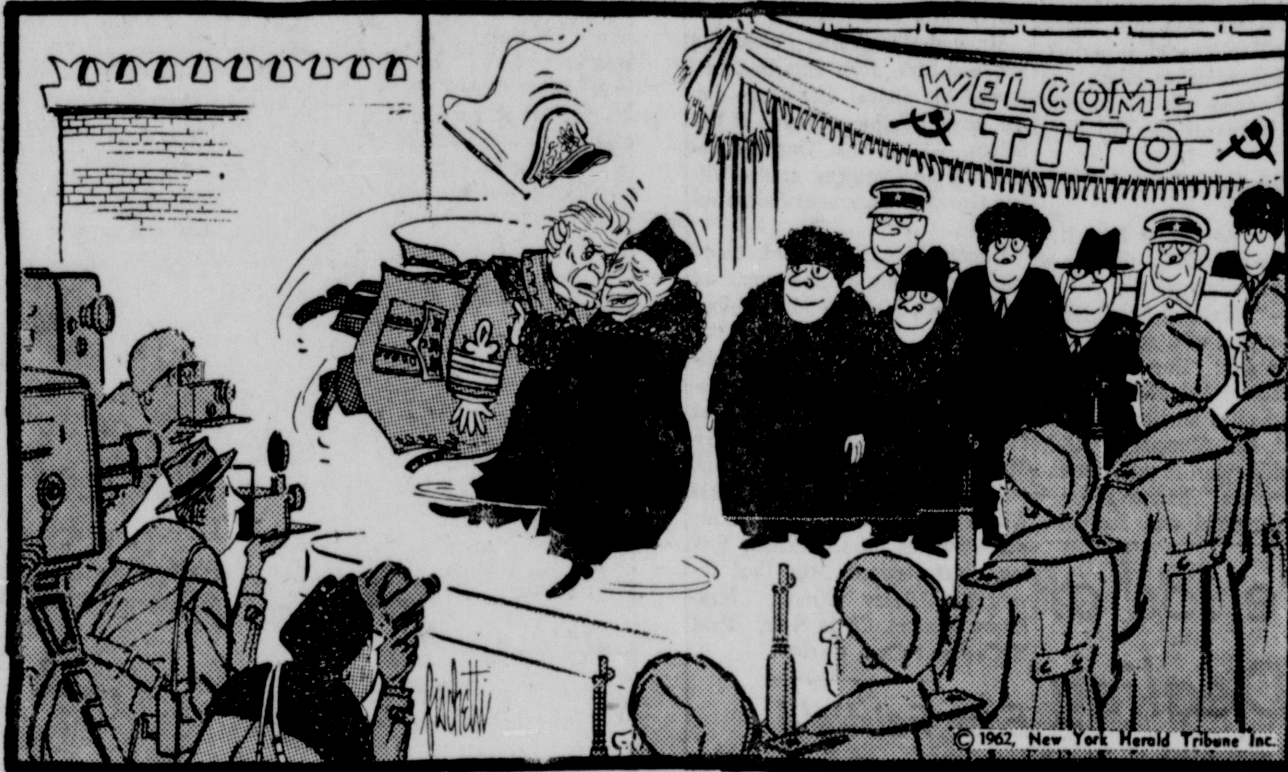

The difficulty is not in deciding which side has "triumphed." For the speech delivered by Nikita Khrushchev shows conclusively that the Soviet Union planned an aggression against the United States and used his stooge—the Castro government—for the purpose of threatening and perhaps even of making a surprise attack on this country.

Unions Are Organizing

By VICTOR RIESEL

Over in Las Vegas everybody takes chances but the government never gambles on the security of its projects in a 200-square-mile area anchored in the slot machine town and reaching to Mercury, Tonopah and Fallon, Nev. There, in a network of secret installations the Mercury Test Site is run by the Reynolds Electrical and Engineering Co. under an 18-year contract with the U.S. There, among other "experiments," our government does its atomic testing above ground and underground.

Recently the organizers of a relatively new union flew into the area. It was their right, especially under a directive by President Kennedy, and the then secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, now a Supreme Court justice, to attempt to unionize. The organizers were interested in a "new" group—the white-collar people—those who handle vital papers, run the offices and do the clerical work right on the site.

BUT FIRST there were discussions with security officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Atomic Energy Commission. Both agencies had cleared the white-collar people. They wanted to know the type of union organizers now seeking to proselytize on the Mercury site. NASA and the AEC were satisfied.

The organizers were from the five Employees International Union (AFL-CIO), which is led by a 49-year-old New Yorker named Howard Coughlin.

The Mercury base project is but one of the secret fields penetrated by this white-collar union. Some, such as the Lone Star Ordnance at Texarkana, Ark., which among other things makes atomic munitions, have sections so secret even most of the union members and all the union leaders don't know the nature of them.

Thus the Office Employees International finds itself dealing constantly with the security men, not only of NASA and the AEC, but of the FBI, the Office of Naval Intelligence, G-2, Air Force security, and one or two others Coughlin just couldn't mention.

THE UNION recruited enough white-collar people at the Mercury complex to obtain a labor board election. Coughlin's organization won, on Nov. 6, the right to bargain with Reynolds Electrical and Engineering for the office workers.

These white-collar workers are in on the beginning of a new field with new types of workers in the new space age and believe they will be the basis of a new unionism. The Mercury site is just one of the "mystery" installations, as Coughlin puts it, with which the Office Employees International has contracts.

Over in Albuquerque, N.M., there is the Sandia Corp. operation. It makes the deadly payloads of the rockets we talk so much and know so little about and justifiably fear so much. Sandia produces atomic munitions, the warheads. Coughlin's union has a contract covering the Sandia office workers.

Still farther over at the Michoud operation outside of New Orleans, the union has petitioned for an election. The office workers handle the paper controls and other clerical work which goes into the direction of the eventual construction of space craft and missiles (moon rockets) in the Saturn project.

THE ATOMIC weapons field is big. There's a plant in Amarillo, Tex., called Pantex, another called Twin City Ordnance in Minnesota which turn out the mechanisms with which to fight an atomic ground war.

They are under contract with the union. Coughlin's policy is to go wherever the atom is harnessed. Though he has not had this drive under way for too long he has gotten around to the nuclear submarine field. His union's white-collar contracts cover the Electric Boat installation in Groton, Conn. and the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. at Pascagoula, Miss. In the State of Washington his contracts cover the Hanford Works in which is a vital atomic reactor.

Where there is no atomic power, Coughlin is satisfied with such tame space age products as the Convair supersonic aircraft made in Fort Worth.

This unionizing campaign has brought more than 7,000 office workers into the union. That's just the beginning. Tens of thousands of additional office workers will come into the field, Coughlin says, especially as "we pass from the era of the atomic artillery shells into nuclear power for ships on the sea, submarine freighters under the sea and space ships soaring to other planets."

New jobs will replace the old.

U.S. Must Save 'Right To Know'

thor Sylvester, defeated the attempts to manipulate the news as "part of the arsenal of weaponry" a U.S. president has to help him solve military or political problems and apply international pressures.

There are many details of the Cuban affair that Americans should know but still do not know.

"The results," Mr. Sylvester confessed, "in my opinion, justify the methods we used."

THAT IS THE shocking part of the whole sordid business: that responsible American public officials really should think they have a mission to conceal facts the public should know in order to achieve results they want to achieve.

That is the way it is done in the dictator countries. The American people will not long stand for being deceived or even kept in ignorance of information they must have for reaching sound judgments about their country's policies and its public officials.

Continuation of such a policy cannot help but rebound in the long run to the detriment of the very public officials who claim they are acting in what they believe are the best interests of the public.

Once it discovers it has been deceived, the public cannot help but develop suspicion where it should have confidence, disbelief even though it finally might be told the truth.

It's the old story of the cry of "Wolf!" Eventually the deceiver is ignored when he tells the truth.

REP. JOHN E. MOSS, D-Calif., chairman of the House Special Subcommittee on Government Information, already has been heard from in this matter. He protested:

"To imply that the entire government information process is part of the maneuvers of international relations is to ignore the workings of our democratic system."

In times of crisis, he admitted, greater control of government information most certainly is required. But, he added:

"It is imperative that the American public be given every possible item of information consistent with our real security needs so that it will be prepared for the role it must play in the nation's defense."

Rep. Moss' committee is preparing to investigate early in 1963 the adequacy of government information plans in emergency situations.

The investigation should rouse the interest of every congressman. The fate of American freedom could depend on it.

History Today

Today is Saturday, Dec. 15, the 349th day of 1962.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1890, Sioux Indian Chief Sitting Bull was killed resisting arrest in his camp on the Grand River in North Dakota. He had been the chief instigator of the Messiah uprising earlier that same year.

On this day: In 1791, the first 10 amendments—the Bill of Rights—to the U.S. Constitution were declared in force.

In 1836, the Patent Office in Washington was destroyed by fire with 10,000 models of inventions lost.

In 1919, the Supreme Court unanimously upheld the National Prohibition Act.

In 1941, the Philippine National Assembly declared a total emergency in the islands following attacks by Japanese invaders.

In 1945, Japan's premier, Prince Konohe, took his own life several hours before he was to have surrendered as a war criminal.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: I just discovered a "secret" as to why one burner on my gas stove would not throw enough heat and it took so long before it would burn when turned on. It was stopped up.

I took a brush (which I ordinarily use for cleaning the stem of my percolator) and pushed it through the small pipe that leads from the burner to the pilot light. I did this several times and presto! It works wonderfully and there is no trouble with it anymore.

AVID READER.
DEAR HELOISE: When I store my vacuum bottle and jugs — after they are washed and thoroughly dried — I drop a stick of wrapped chewing gum in each bottle and screw the cap on and then put them away.

ELENA.
DEAR HELOISE: I make canned and frozen vegetables taste like those grandmother used to make and nearly as good as the fresh ones we used to pick out of our garden if I grate a quarter of a small onion and add it and dash of sugar and salt to the water in which I boil all frozen and canned vegetables in.

To get back to the old man-my cookin', did you know that when you use salt in vegetables, you should also use a pinch of sugar, too?

When I use canned tomatoes, I always — depending on the size of the can of tomatoes — add at least a level teaspoon of sugar with them s I find it cuts the acid taste of the canned tomatoes!

I'm from the South, Heloise. This is the answer to good eatin'.

SOUTHERNER.
Thanks, I tried this on canned green beans. Wonderful!!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Sometimes when we are ironing or pressing dacron or synthetic fabrics and the iron accidentally gets too hot so that the fabric adheres to the iron:

To remove this from the iron, let the iron cool until it is very cold and lift this off of the iron with a razor blade and it will peel off in chunks.

MRS. WOODHALL.

DEAR HELOISE: When peeling garlic buds, just slice off a small amount from each end of the bud itself and the peel will come off easily.

M.M.N.

DEAR HELOISE: My suggestion for those who ask for the proper method of cleaning kid gloves is: Because many types of gloves are washable but require special handling — such as kid or doeskin — my suggestion is to ask for the correct washing instructions when you buy the gloves at your local store.

'Porky' Puts Kids In Hospital To Sleep

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Porky the rubber pig with a squeak is a helpful decoy in putting youngsters to sleep at St. Barnabas Hospital operating rooms.

One leg of the toy is connected with the operating room gas tank. When a child, intrigued by the toy, squeezes it, Porky exudes a whiff of anesthetic.

A much nicer way to be put to sleep than looking at all those big people in masks, a staff member explains.

It was the fourth Flying Tiger Line crash this year.

of the alliance must keep up their posture of strength.

Alliance officials said the ministers found no signs that there has been any change in basic Soviet policy which might facilitate an East-West understanding. On the contrary, officials said, the ministers agreed the present Soviet attitude is such that any understandings reached with Moscow would tend to endanger vital Western interests.

The communique reiterated the determination of the Atlantic powers to defend and maintain the freedom of isolated West Berlin.

The communique made no mention of the American suggestion that European members of the alliance consider the organization of a multinational nuclear deterrent to stand as a substitute for national independent nuclear forces.

The political argument on nuclear policy remains to be thrashed out by the alliance.

The ministers agreed to maintain "constant vigilance and unity of purpose" and also said they remained ready to examine any reasonable possibility of reducing international tensions.

"It is a prerequisite of any progress towards equitable settlement of outstanding international issues that the Alliance should maintain its defensive strength," they added.

Dealing with NATO's future defensive efforts, the communique said the ministers "agreed that it was necessary to increase the effectiveness of conventional forces."

"They further agreed that adequate and balanced forces, both nuclear and conventional, were necessary to provide the Alliance with the widest possible range of response to whatever threat may be directed against its security."

"They recognized that a sustained effort will be required to provide and improve these forces."

The communique supported defensive concepts voiced by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Highway Fund Shortage Seen In Ohio by '70

CLEVELAND (AP) — State Highway Director Everett Preston says anticipated state revenues will fall nearly $100 million a year short of meeting requirements for highways for an expanding population in this decade.

In a report on the findings of an "Ohio Highway Needs Study," Preston said the highway program will cost the state $797 million a year to 1970. But a projection of revenues for the period shows that only $701 million yearly will be available for building and maintaining the state's roads, streets and highways, Preston said.

In the report to the Ohio Highway and Turnpike Association, Preston said revenues will increase to $959 million yearly in the following decade.

Ohio will need an additional 79,800 miles of roads by 1980 to meet the needs of an expected population of 13.4 million, he said. The population was recorded at 9,706,397 in the 1960 census.

There will be 7.2 million automobiles registered in Ohio by 1980, the highway director predicted.

Ohio now has 104,000 miles of roads and streets, he said. In addition to the 79,800 additional miles of new roads needed, there is an immediate need for improvement on 62,000 miles of highway, said Preston.

Furthermore, he estimated 80 per cent of the rural state roads are below standard for present traffic requirements.

The association went on record favoring the proposed Lake Erie-to-Ohio River canal, declaring such a canal would relieve some of the highway congestion.

Tax Slash

And he said the present tax system must bear much of the blame; that it "exerts too heavy a drag on growth."

Kennedy's audience was formally polite at the outset, applauding at what he must have considered the wrong places. His references to federal penny-pinching rather than his arguments for lower taxes.

The atmosphere changed dramatically, however, as the President moved into a 30-minute question and answer session following his address. At this juncture, he began drawing enthusiastic applause with arguments against such controversial ideas as easier credit and cutback in foreign aid.

In discussing taxes, the President said little that was new or startling. But he did serve notice that he would directly challenge the arguments of those taking a go-slow approach to tax reduction. "It is increasingly clear," Kennedy said, "that no matter what party is in power, so long as our national security needs keep rising, an economy hampered by restrictive tax rates will never produce enough revenue to balance the budget—just as it will never produce enough jobs or enough profits."

He said the choice is between a no-tax-cut "chronic deficit of inertia" and a transitional tax-cut deficit reflecting "an investment in the future."

At one point, he quoted, approvingly, an economy plea by chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., a tax cut doubter who is chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates all tax legislation.

He noted a Mills statement that tax cuts must be accompanied by "increased control of the rises in expenditures." Added Kennedy: "This is precisely the course we intend to follow."

Kennedy made a 25-hour flying visit to New York to address the Economic Club and to participate in groundbreaking ceremonies Friday at the site of the official United States Pavilion at the 1964 New York World's Fair. He also attended a late evening dinner party at the home of his friend, Earl E. T. Smith, who was ambassador to Cuba in the Eisenhower administration.

The President was scheduled to return to Washington in mid-afternoon today.

eight months.

According to the unionist, these include:

The company's policy set Dec. 3 to pay only time and a half for time worked over 40 per week rather than the formerly paid double time for hours worked in excess of 10 hours a day and for time worked on weekends.

The calculation of vacation time starting after a year from the worker's beginning date rather than the former calculation from the first day of work.

The cancellation of pay on holidays.

Long contrasted Schnell's pay of a top hourly rate of $1.60 to the $2.28 he reports is paid to sweepers at some local organized plants.

The union, which is still seeking its charter from the USW, represents about 50 per cent of the total labor force at Schnell's No. 1 and 2 plants and Salem Stamping and Manufacturing.

Long said the union was cheered somewhat by the recall by Schnell this week of 10 men who had been laid off recently.

Another meeting between Schnell's counsel and union leaders was tentatively set for next Thursday or Friday to further negotiations.

At Friday morning's meeting besides Atty. Manchester and Long, were union vice president John Bergman; John Chaffin, union financial secretary, Ed Hill and, subdivision director of USW, and Charles Hinchcliffe, subdivision USW staff representative. Union treasurer Matthias (Matt) Green and reporting secretary Albert Beeson did not attend.

warming trend for a few days," said Hobson.

City Street Commissioner Harry Ziskind was heartened by the forecast.

"Now we can clean up the icy ridges that have made driving hazardous in some sections," said Ziskind. "The ice was so hard our plow couldn't get rid of it and it was too cold for salt to melt it."

Ziskind said he has ordered his 350 men to continue working around the clock. He said the clean-up will cost the city around $300,000. Already 6,000 tons of salt have been used.

Cleveland public and Catholic school officials have appealed to homeowners to shovel their sidewalks so some 250,000 pupils can answer the school bell Monday. They have not had classes all week, mainly because unshoveled sidewalks would have made them walk in the streets.

The long cold and snow spell has helped the utility businesses. Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. reported its biggest kilowatt output in history Thursday.

More than 500,000 CEI customers in five counties used 31 million kilowatts. This broke the previous all-time high of 29.7 million kilowatts, set on Wednesday.

East Ohio Gas Co. pumped a near-record volume of gas Thursday through its 11,000-mile pipeline network supplying homes, factories, schools and businesses in 12 counties.

A gas company spokesman said its 840,000 customers consumed a total of 1.94 billion cubic feet of gas that day.

A fresh snowfall of up to three inches Friday kept road crews busy in Lake, Geauga, Cuyahoga and Ashland counties. Ashland now has almost 4½ feet on the ground.

Never had anyone seen so remarkable a sight!

SKATING HENRIETTA

Mr. Shnoo went off in a corner and chewed on the knuckle of one thumb. He scratched his head and jerked his mouth sideways and screwed up his eyes. Everyone could see he was thinking.

The men stood about waiting until finally Mr. Shnoo said, "I've got it!"

He ordered the men to dig a huge hole in the floor of the elephant's cage. The edge of the hole came right to Henrietta's middle. Her legs hung over the side. Mr. Shnoo got some wide planks and laid them in the hole so they slanted down the side like a big bamboo slide.

NOW MR. SHNOO had all the men line up behind the elephant and he cried, "One, two, three—push!" They gave a mighty push and over Henrietta went, sliding down the planks to land on her feet in the bottom of the hole. "Hooray!" shouted the men.

But Mr. Shnoo was filled with dismay. He stared down at Henrietta. He thought, "She's on her feet but now we get her out of the hole?"

In truth, Henrietta was as bad off as before. To make matters worse, the poor elephant was now

Cincinnati Whips Kansas State 75-61 For Fifth

Bradley Is Beaten By Gophers 73-63

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that he's survived the famine, Cincinnati's Ron Bonham is enjoying the feast.

The 6-foot-5 Bearcat junior hasn't exactly starved himself into stardom by trimming 20 pounds off his big frame with a rigid diet, but he's made a large enough dent in the avoidpous department to lighten the load of the nation's top-ranked basketball team.

The slimmed-down 200-pounder, along with George Wilson, pulled the Bearcats out of trouble against Kansas State Friday night, scoring 27 points as the NCAA champions whipped the Wildcats, 75-61.

The victory in the first game of the annual Sunflower doubleheader, was the undefeated Bearcats' fifth in succession this season and their 23rd over a two-season span. In the opener at Manhattan, Kan., Arizona State U. won its fourth, 71-62 over Kansas. The teams move to Lawrence, Kan., tonight and switch opponents.

Meanwhile, ninth-ranked Oregon State, still trying to get along without Libery Bowl-bound football star Terry Baker, was beaten by California, 61-59 with the ballhawking of Don Lauer and Dick Smith making the difference.

In a couple of other form reversals, Minnesota got a 24-point performance from Eric Madanz and handed Bradley its first defeat, 73-63, and Providence hit 59 per cent of its shots to upend St. Louis, 64-57.

On the holiday tournament scene—just getting under way and headed for its usual hectic windup during Christmas week—Duke and Pittsburgh qualified for the Steel Bowl final at Pittsburgh for the eighth consecutive time. The Dukes belted Boston College, 57-45, while the Panthers clawed William & Mary, 66-56.

In the Knights of Columbus tournament at Portland, Ore., Tennessee State defeated University of the Pacific, 89-78, and Portland edged Los Angeles Loyola, 72-69.

Crestview Bounces United Local 72-47

Jim Kress and his Crestview teammates swept to their third victory in four outings Friday night as they romped over the visiting United Local Golden Eagles 72-47.

It was the second loss in as many appearances for the Eagles, who dropped their opener to Sebring 43-33 two weeks ago.

Kress put on a one-man scoring performance as he peppered the boards with 19 floor shots and added two free throws for a total of 40 counters.

As if Kress wasn't enough for the United aggregation to worry about, two of his teammates—Dave Baker and Allen Coburn—also ended the night in double figures. Baker tossed in 12 points with Coburn adding another 10.

The Rebels jumped to an early lead and held a comfortable 20-8 lead as the game entered the second canto. At the end of the half the winners led by 17 points (35-18) and were in front 53-35 as the game entered the last period.

In preliminary action, United's jayvees upended their hosts 30-26. United returns to action tonight, playing host to the Bears of Leetonia while Crestview is on the road at Sebring.

West Branch Nips Greenford 72-70 In Triple-Overtime

West Branch's Warriors bounced into the win column Friday night as they handed Coach Jerry Sues's Greenford Bobcats a 72-70 setback in a triple overtime on the victors' court.

The regulation game ended in a 62-62 deadlock, sending the tilt into overtime. Each team tallied four counters in the extra period, and then added four more in the second overtime. In the sudden-death third overtime, Gary Smith sank a set shot from in front of the key to account for the win.

Jim Hoopes and Dick Wallace led the winners in scoring as they netted 14 and 13 counters, respectively.

Greenford placed three cagers in the double figures. Rick Arnold copped game scoring honors as he potted 21 counters, followed closely by Bill Cook with 19 and Jim Davis with 18.

The victory evens the Warriors' season record at 1-1. They were nipped by Lisbon 44-43 in an overtime fray last week. Greenford now stands 2-1, with victories over Mineral Ridge and Crestview.

West Branch led statistic-wise as they connected on 32 of 96 floor attempts for 33 per cent, compared to the Bobcats 23 for 78 or 29 per cent. From the free-throw line the winners hit eight of 10 for an amazing 80 per cent while Greenford sank 24 of 43 for a percentage of 56.

Columbiana Clips Louisville 53-50

Jim Ward canned a pair of foul shots and Dale Murphy made a push shot in the last minute to give Columbiana a 51-48 lead and the Clippers went on to trim Louisville 53-50 at Columbiana Friday night.

It was the first game in Tri-County League competition for both schools.

The Clippers posted their second straight win. Columbiana lost its opener to Springfield Local 58-51. The Leopards dropped their second contest in a row.

Columbiana took a 16-14 lead in the initial period, held a 30-26 margin at intermission and a 39-34 spread at the end of the third session.

The lead exchanged hands numerous times during the final frame, and Louisville held a 48-47 margin with three minutes left.

Then Ward tossed in the free throws and Murphy swished the net with a push shot.

Ward sparked Columbiana with 17 points. Murphy collected 12 and Rick Perrin chipped in with 10. Robert Gladioux chalked up 12 markers for Louisville.

The Louisville reserves won 34-31.

Columbiana will entertain Beaver Local next Friday, while the Leopards remain idle until Dec. 28 when they take on West Branch.

Leetonia Rips Poland 50-46 for First Victory

George Zeppernick and Frank Guerrier combined for more than half of their team's points as they sparked the Leetonia Bears to a 50-46 inaugural victory over the invading Poland Bulldogs Friday night.

The loss evens the Bulldogs' season mark at 1-1.

Zeppernick ended the fray with 16 counters as he potted six floor shots and four charity tosses while Guerrier also managed six goals but sank only two fouls for a total of 14 counters.

The Bears trailed 13-12 at the end of the first canto but pulled ahead 27-24 at the half. Leetonia widened its advantage to seven tallies (40-33) in the third and then outlasted a Bulldog rally to wrap up the victory.

Leetonia was originally scheduled to make its debut last week against North Lima, however, heavy snows and bad roads forced cancellation of the contest. In their first tilt last week, the Bulldogs nipped Springfield Local 53-52.

Leetonia returns to the hardwoods tonight, traveling to Hanoverton to battle the Golden Eagles of United High. Poland will be on the road at Hubbard, also tonight.
